

A progress report on my final project for Ceramics – Year 2.
The design for the diffuser was submitted Dec. 1, 2008.

In January, I created two diffusers. The first is based on the original design.
This is what it looks like after the oxide has been applied (and before the clear limestone glaze). Final firing to be done in February.

The second one is of a different design. It also has the two colours of oxide (green and blue) and the clear limestone glaze. Both diffusers also have broken green glass in the base of the cup.

Both diffusers have my “wabi-sabi” (imperfect beauty) style.
